The current fund performance may be higher or lower than that cited. The current seven-day yield does not include realized gains and losses on the sale of securities. The yields shown above may reflect fee waivers by service providers that subsidize and reduce the total operating expenses of the Funds. Fund yields would be lower if there were no such waivers.

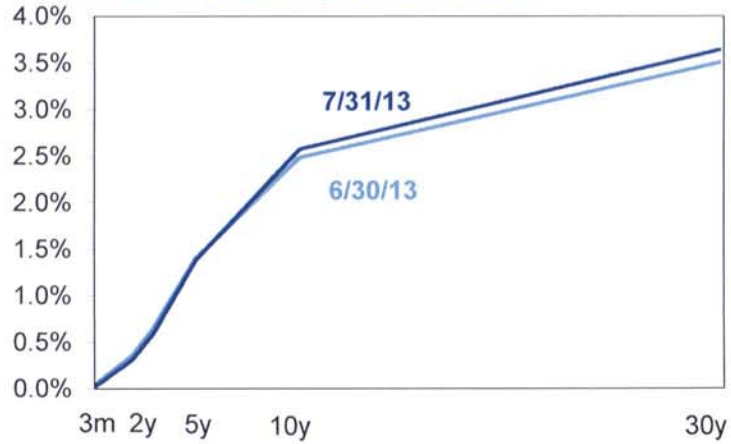
Recent Treasury Yield Curves



After sharp increases in both May and June, bond yields were little changed in July. One-year, 2-year and 5-year Treasury yields declined a modest 4, 5 and 2 basis points, respectively, while 10-year Treasury yields inched up 9 basis points. Sector performance was mixed with intermediate corporate bonds outperforming like-maturity Treasuries by 0.60% and mortgages outperforming by 0.12%. Government agency issued debentures trailed equivalent maturity Treasuries by 0.03% and asset-backed securities lagged by 0.32%.

Performance was similar across the maturity spectrum owing to the modestly steeper yield curve. The FMIvT High Quality 0-2 Year Bond Fund and FMIvT High Quality Intermediate Bond Fund posted near benchmark performance while the FMIVT High Quality 1-3 Year Bond Fund trailed by 0.06%. The 0.06% gap is mostly attributable to the higher allocation of asset-backed securities held in the portfolio. The portfolios continue to be positioned with a shorter than benchmark duration.

Global Economy

US growth accelerated in July as the manufacturing sectors experienced a surge in factory orders and production while service related companies reported a pickup in business.

US employers increased payrolls by 162,000 in July, following a 188,000 rise in June according to figures released by the Labor Department. The US unemployment rate dropped to 7.4% from 7.6% in June due to continued job gains and an increase in the number of discouraged workers who stopped looking for a job according to Labor Department figures.

At the conclusion of its two-day meeting on July 31, the Federal Reserve (Fed) left its current monetary policies unchanged, but acknowledged US economic growth had slowed. The Fed said that it will continue its current monthly pace of purchasing $40 billion of mortgage-backed securities and $45 billion in Treasury securities.

The European Central Bank decided to keep its benchmark interest rate at a record low 0.5% and maintained expectations that economic activity will recover in the second half of 2013 following a six quarter contraction in the euro area.

Japan reported lower than expected second quarter economic growth as companies turned cautious, reducing spending due to slower than anticipated export growth. However, consumer spending improved due to a ramp up on travel and luxury items.

Global Markets

Key Market Indices

Global stocks rose in July, beating bonds by the widest margin since January after reassurance from global central banks that monetary policy will remain accommodative despite continued stabilization in economic conditions. The MSCI All-Country Index climbed 4.8%, outpacing the Bank of America Merrill Lynch's Global Broad Market index by 4.5%.

US stocks stretched to new records in July amid strong corporate earnings and signs the economic recovery was gaining traction. The S&P 500 reached an all time high of 1,695.53 on July 22, 8% above the pre-recessionary peak reached in October 2007. The index gained 5.1% for the month, the best monthly performance since January.

US small cap stocks hit a new all time high in July as the Russell 2000 index reached 1,054.18 on July 25, before closing the month up 7%. Small caps have outpaced both large caps and mid caps for the year with the Russell 2000 climbing 24% versus the Russell 1000's rise of 20% and the Russell Midcap's gain of 22%. The healthcare and consumer staple sectors were the top performing groups in July.

Emerging market equities ended two consecutive months of declines, with the MSCI EM index rising 1.1% in July after Chinese manufacturing unexpectedly strengthened and the Federal Reserve pledged to continue purchasing $85 billion in government securities each month.

Commodity prices rallied in July, ending three straight months of declines. The index was led by a surge in energy prices supported by signs of a pickup in global manufacturing activity. Crude oil advanced 8.8% to $105.03 a barrel after an Energy Department report showed inventories had plummeted. Gold jumped 7.3% to $1,312 an ounce as foreign central banks expanded their reserves to hedge inflation. Corn prices fell for the sixth consecutive month as farmers continued to boost supply.

Global bonds rallied amid speculation both the European Central Bank and Bank of England would hold benchmark interest rates near record lows during policy meetings in early August. Benchmark German 10-year sovereign yields declined 6 bps to 1.67%, but remained near the highs set in June. Italian 10-year yields fell 14 bps to 4.41% after the government approved tax breaks for companies that offer permanent job contracts to help reduce unemployment.

US Treasury yields maintained their upward trend from June in the early days of July, before moving lower after Fed Chairman Bernanke said July 17 that an end to bond buying was not on a predetermined course. Both the 10-year and 30-year yield touched the highest level in two years on July 5, before drifting lower. For the month the 10-year yield added 9 basis points (bps) to 2.58%, while the 30-year yield added 14 bps to 3.64%.

Investors sought higher risk bonds in July after the Fed reduced speculation on scaling back bond purchases. The Barclays US Corporate Investment Grade index gained 0.83%, following a decline of 2.8% in June, while the Barclays US Corporate High Yield index rose 1.9%, after two consecutive months of declines.
