(c) Seven day yield as of month end. The yields shown above represent past performance. Past performance is no guarantee of future results and yields may vary. The current fund performance may be higher or lower than that cited. The current seven-day yield does not include realized gains and losses on the sale of securities. The yields shown above may reflect fee waivers by service providers that subsidize and reduce the total operating expenses of the Funds. Fund yields would be lower if there were no such waivers.

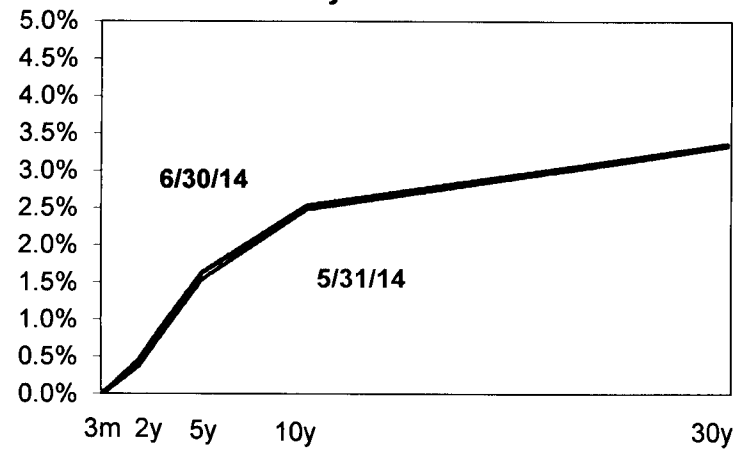
Recent Treasury Yield Curves



Bond market returns were muted in June, the result of a modest up-tick in interest rates for most maturities, as stronger economic data confirmed that the economy was accelerating after the 1st quarter contraction. The yield on the 2-year Treasury increased 8 basis points to 0.46% while yields 5-year and 10-year maturities each were up 9 and 5 basis points, respectively.

For the month, the FMIvT HQ 0-2 Year Fund returned 0.01% while the FMIvT HQ 1-3 Year Fund returned a positive 0.03%, both modestly ahead of their respective benchmarks. The FMIvT HQ Intermediate Fund returned -0.02% vs. 0.04% for its benchmark. The Fund is positioned with an overweight to MBS backed by 15-year loans and underweight to lower quality corporate bonds and MBS backed by 30-year loans which detracted slightly from results.

With many inflation measures firmer and unemployment improving, we are moving closer to the end of extraordinary Fed policy accommodation. We continue to favor a defensive duration positioning. Additionally, tighter monetary policy and a flatter yield curve provides a tailwind to securitized assets versus other sectors. We look to maintain a near full allocation the MBS and ABS sectors going forward.

Global Economy

The Commerce Department's final reading on the US economy during the first quarter showed a 2.9% contraction, the worst reading since 2009. The downward revision reflected a slowdown in health care spending and a reduction in corporate inventory build. However, recent data indicated the setback may prove temporary, as activity in the manufacturing and housing markets showed the economy was rebounding from the first quarter plunge. Orders for capital goods, such as computers, rose in May reversing April's decline, while demand for automobiles in June spiked to the highest level since September 2005. Paced by this growing demand, manufacturers are likely to boost production to replenish inventories, driving growth in the second half of the year.

US housing showed signs of improvement as builders broke ground on an annualized 1 million homes in May. Borrowing costs retreated in June, as the average 30-year, fixed-rate mortgage was 4.28% at month's end, down from 4.41% at the beginning of April. As a result, sales of existing homes posted the biggest increase since August 2011. US employers added 288,000 jobs in June, marking the fifth straight month of gains above 200,000 led by gains at factories and service industries. The unemployment rate fell to 6.1%, an almost six-year low. Consumer prices rose 0.4% in May, due to a 0.9% jump in energy prices while food prices rose 0.5%. Costs rose 2.1% over the past 12 months.

Economic data abroad was mixed in June. A report showed euro-area manufacturing and services activity cooled in June, but remained expansionary, suggesting the region's recovery from a recession will be gradual. China's manufacturing expanded in June at the fastest pace this year, providing evidence the government's efforts to stimulate growth are taking hold.

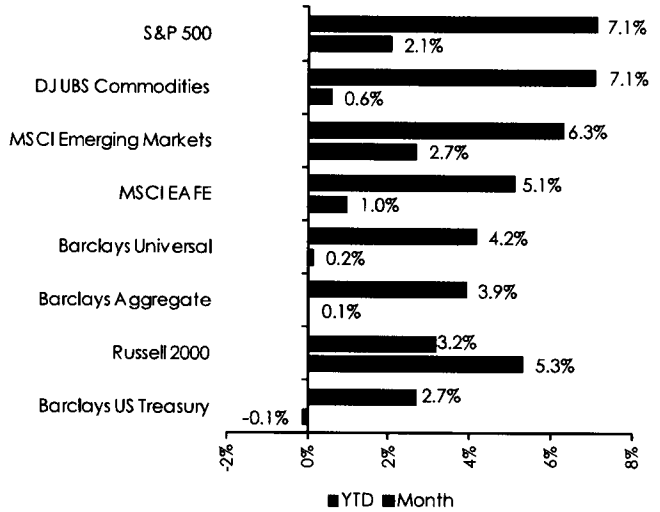
Global Markets

Key Market Indices



Gold traded near its highest level since March after global central bankers reassured investors that interest rates will remain low and they will continue to flood markets with liquidity. Gold prices closed June at $1,322 an ounce, after reaching $1,332, the highest since March 24, advancing 6.2% for the month.

US stocks touched new highs in June, amid investor optimism regarding the outlook for US growth. The Standard & Poor's 500 index rose to an all time high of 1,962.87 on June 20 before closing the month at 1960.23, a gain of 2.1%. The S&P 500 traded at 18 times the past 12 months earnings, the highest valuation since May 2011. Eight out of ten sectors rose, led by energy shares rising nearly 5%. The Russell 2000 index of small companies rose sharply in June after encountering two-months of weakness, climbing 5.3%, led by energy and health care stocks.

Global stocks enjoyed modest gains supported by additional central bank stimulus, an uptick in merger and acquisitions activity and signs economic growth was stabilizing. The broad benchmark index of global equities, the MSCI All-Country World index rose 1.9%. European stocks were little changed pressured by continued geopolitical tensions between Ukraine and Russia, which offset the European Central Bank's (ECB) new stimulus measures. Asian stocks climbed after Japan's government revised first quarter growth sharply higher to an annualized 6.7% from an initial reading of 5.9%. The MSCI Japan index climbed 5.2%, following gains of 3.9% in May sending the index into positive territory for the year.

Emerging market stocks rose amid signs the global economy was gathering speed and political uncertainty was decreasing. The MSCI Emerging Markets index advanced 2.7%, the fifth consecutive monthly gain, and the longest such rally since 2007. All ten industry groups rose led by health care and energy companies. Brazilian stocks climbed to eight-month highs, recording the biggest monthly gain since March. Indian equities traded to all-time highs amid optimism the newly elected government would implement growth oriented reforms to support the economy.

During its June meeting the Federal Reserve continued cutting the monthly pace of bond purchases, reducing it by $10 billion for a fifth straight meeting, to $35 billion. Fed policy makers agreed that their bond purchase program would conclude with a final reduction of $15 billion in October as long as the economy remained resilient.

The US Treasury curve flattened; short-term yields rose as the market priced in expectations of earlier policy rate hikes. Two-year yields rose 8 basis points (bps) to 0.46%, while the benchmark 10-year yield rose 5 bps to 2.53%. The Bank of America Merrill Lynch US Treasury index lost ground ending two straight months of gains. US corporate investment grade yields were relatively unchanged for the month at 2.91%, while yields on US corporate high yield bonds broke through the 5% level, grinding to 4.83%, the lowest on record before closing at 4.91%.

The European Central Bank set the tone for international bond markets after announcing new stimulus measures on June 5 which included cutting its main refinancing rate to a record 0.15% and moving the deposit rate for banks below zero to encourage banks to lend rather than hold cash. German 10-year yields fell 11 bps to 1.25%, only 12 bps from the record 1.13% reached in 2012.

US dollar emerging market bond (EMD) yields were unchanged at 5.11%, leading to a slight gain in the JPMorgan EMBI Global Diversified index, marking five consecutive monthly advances. The premium investors demand to own emerging-market debt over US Treasuries fell five bps to 269 bps, according to JPMorgan EMBI Global Diversified bond index. Average yields on local currency EMD bonds dropped 9 bps to 6.54% according to the JPMorgan GBI Global Diversified index.
